Andarkulam Medical Center:

On an average about 50-60 patients visits the hospital in the last few months. In the month of October 2007, total patients visited were 57. It is obvious that there was a sudden decline in the number of patients benefited by this hospital in the last few months. The reason for this, the Doctor claims that the local people do not cooperate with the smooth running of the hospital. An ambulance was bought for the Hospital by the Udhayam Trust. We are on the look out for more doctors to run the hospital more efficiently.

1118 rural students are duly educated through the free coaching centers and the efforts rendered by 27 teachers are inexplicable they with the earned knowledge and acquired training skills perform their best in imparting a value based education to the students. The retention rate of students in the FCCs is high and this is due to the joyful learning system and learning using available local resources further, the structural adjustments made by the teachers to the benefits of the students helped a lot in the high retention rate.
